Leadership in that space is more of a practise and a way of working, in terms of how do we do and solve that together? What are the issues and challenges we face working through to understand that? But also what do we have in common, and how can we do that together.

This is a challenge that so many of us need to be working on together, not one of us, as any individual stakeholder, can deal with alone, and it's how we work together in doing that.
